25,000 news published from 8 March 2003

And it's 25 thousand!

Twenty-five thousand are the news published by "Vaccari news" from 8 March 2003 to today, all available free of charge at the time of launch or even after, thanks to the internal search engine

The world is changing but, in its sector, "Vaccari news" has remained a point of reference for almost twenty years (the first piece of news dates back to 8 March 2003) and for twenty-five thousand news, published to date, all reachable anytime and anywhere through the internal search engine that draws from the archive.

Under the magnifying glass, new stamps from the Italian area and from abroad, meetings and events, technical and legislative notes; and then books, newspapers, websites, curiosities, news from the publishing company.

A heritage available free of charge to interested parties, to which are added, again without charge, the list of issues for Italy, San Marino, the Vatican and Smom as well as the agenda of upcoming collecting appointments.

"There is nothing comparable for our sector in the country or even beyond the borders", they explain from the headquarters in Vignola (Modena). "Of course, there have been perhaps less elaborate attempts, but constantly following the news is challenging from various points of view; it requires attention, knowledge and a lot of time to devote to the service".
