The catalogue boasts over 115 publishers, a number that continues to grow, and is marked by the great names in the Italian publishing world with their history and military-history collections. Names such as Mondadori with its traditional series “Le Scie” and some titles from its “Oscar” series, as well as Einaudi, Sperling & Kupfer, Rizzoli and the classic BUR collection (Biblioteca Universale Rizzoli) that features historical accounts written by Italian and foreign authors. Next to these more general volumes are also more specialized ones including Arnaldo Forni’s works on the Old Italian States, Bonanno’s on the Risorgimento, the compilation of documents on Giolitti by Bastogi, Chillemi’s “Storia militare” collection and finally Solfanelli’s short but interesting works.

1861-2011: 150 years of a unified Italy

In the spirit of celebrating this anniversary, the History Bookshop adds a new feature and is now able to offer, through various history categories, a chronological itinerary of events that span two centuries of history and military-history.

This itinerary stretches from the Risorgimento and the people who made its history such as Garibaldi, Cavour and Mazzini all the way to the Twentieth century with a great overview of the two wars, Fascism, Nazism and the Italian Colonial Empire. An important section focuses on the Eastern frontier, which has always been a place of fighting; it was first the setting for actions aimed at achieving the unification of Italy, and then undoubtedly became a hot topic of the second world war, to finally represent an ideal border between different worlds and ideologies during the cold war.

The three great sections by the Army General Staff, the Army, Navy and Aviation, feature over 240 titles that continue to offer precious information on soldiers’ experience in Italian history, while also revealing information on corps, weapons, transport and uniforms.

The catalogue concludes with a new section entitled “International History”, which mainly focuses on the Spanish Civil War and Jewish history, and the “Espionage, Secrets and Mysteries” section, a collection that reveals many Italian and foreign mysteries, secret services, underhand work along with horrors and truths that have never been told before.

Vaccari “Meeting History” collection has also seen improvements in the fourth volume with Rosario Abate and Giorgio Apostolo’s work “Caproni nella Prima guerra mondiale”. This work, published for the first time in 1970, is now available in this new edition. The book retraces the history of the “strategic bomber” and gives a wide sweeping view of the events through new photographs.

Finally, the History Bookshop gallery included in the continually-updated BOOKS section of the site has also been made over. The inclusion of the “New books” section allows all most recently acquired works to all be in one easy place, together with the latest new picks of the library market. Researching works in the catalogue by publisher, key word or code is still available.

As usual a hardcopy of the catalogue will be issued annually.

MEETING HISTORY

www.madeinvaccari.it?SetLanguage=en

For some time the “History through documents” series has continued following a particular guideline: to analyse, through the study of documents and postal history, events or historical topics in an accurate and detailed way thus often revealing details that otherwise would not be easily identifiable.

Within this series, the section “Meeting History” has been created, which expands on specific historical topics, with a mostly narrative approach, and is always based on the analysis of documents.

The series has been introduced with Fabio Bonacina’s study, “La salma nascosta - Mussolini dopo Piazzale Loreto da Cerro Maggiore a Predappio (1946-1957)”, 50 years after Mussolini’s body was returned to his family, followed by the volume by Ricciotti Garibaldi, “La camicia rossa nella guerra balcanica campagna in Epiro 1912”, on the occasion of the bicentenary of the birth of the author’s father, Giuseppe Garibaldi.

The third edition is Mario Cobiانchi’s volume, “Pionieri dell’Aviazione in Italia 1908-1914”, which was published in 1943 and had long been difficult to find. This work offers a sort of encyclopaedia on the pioneering of flight in Italy. It has been updated and expanded with numerous notes and an errata at the bottom of the page, edited by Fiorenzo Longhi, one of the greatest experts on Italian aerophilately.

The fourth volume is Rosario Abate and Giorgio Apostolo’s work “Caproni nella Prima guerra mondiale”. Published for the first time in 1970, it is now available in this new edition. The book retraces the history of the “strategic bomber” and gives a wide sweeping view of the events through new photographs.
